“ I miss you sissy. I know we aren't blood family but you are and will forever be the closest family i have. I miss you Ariana. I got a new cat. It's funny every time I start thinking of you more I randomly get sent a cat. Mayhem is her name shes very young, 6 months old. Her birthday is 10 days before mine fun fact. I think you would've liked her. Its crazy how people say time heals anything but it sure as hell hasn't heal losing my BSF. Best sisters forever. I don't really know why I'm writing this or why I can't move on. But I do know this I miss you a ton Ariana and really wish we could've swapped.

“ Hey Ari, It will be seven years as of this year that you’ve left us. I was looking at yearbooks from when we were in elementary school, you always had the brightest smile and the sweetest personality, sorry I haven’t been writing here as often as I promised myself. I am very busy, I’m a sophomore in college in my spring semester at U of L, I also have a niece now, she reminds me a lot of you in a way, she is beautiful and sassy just like you! I’m planning on visiting your grave someday with some fresh flowers for you. I always question why you left us, not only that but I also keep finding myself questioning how you left us, even though I don’t have to or really want to know. No matter if it’s self caused or natural causes, it’s not fair, you were so young, you should’ve graduated and went to college with me, if you wouldn’t have died, we would’ve been friends since elementary school. I wish I could’ve been a better friend and kept in contact with you, that’s one of my biggest regrets with you. Me and Kadya still talk, I don’t know if you remember her. Also you remember how I was bullied at Stuart, right? I saw one of my bullies at the grocery store last month and we started talking and catching up with one another, long story short, they apologized for what they did to me. Also you would’ve loved U of L, they have a lot of animals and wildlife like squirrels. You would have also loved my niece, she is a sassy, adorable, and cute little girl. I’ll be sure to update you regularly on how life is going, Lovely. I miss you so much!

Your friend forever,
Kara Wyatt
