“ FORREST DUFFY on Facebook 2/21/19.

Hurting today hearing about a best childhood friend taking his life. It sucks we have to play all these mind games with the world we are in today. Life seems to become tougher with unachievable expectations and goals weighing down simple true happiness for ourselves. All that surrounds us is telling us we are not living the life they think we should have; when all that really matters is having the life you think you should have. I am sorry it had to end this way man and I wish it didn't have to be like that. I hope you are better now and all that built up inside doesn't follow you.

We may not have talked in a long time but I have some great memories I'd like to share and hope you can remember them too. All the times I had to convince my mom to let me spend the night at your crib because we could watch scary PG13 movies. All the times we stayed up logging into AOL and messaging random shit on AIM. The times we spent swimming at your pool and even going skinny dipping at night. Sledding and racing with Travis Gregory down the neighborhood hills and your yard. The one time you and I raced down Travis's hill on scooters and wiped the fuck out completely tearing our legs up. We were on the porch after and I remember you would start crying from the pain and I would start laughing; then I would cry and you'd start laughing your ass off. I still tell that story 15 years later. And I can't forget the crazy times with Alex Goodman running around at the picnics. OLMC days man.

Those were the simple days and man I wish life was still that easy. We will catch up again Cody Dages

“ Tim, We all know how much you loved your son. Cody was most of what you talked about whether it was fishing, helping you with the house or just hanging out. So none of this is easy, comfortable or understandable. Just know we love you and will be here with you and for you. Prayers and hugs to you and your family. Lisa, though we have never met, we knew of you! and are very sorry for your loss and prayers for you. Judy and David Gilbert
