“ I know you are at peace. I know that you will never leave me. I know how to find you when I am uncertain, I did not forget. I want the world to know you were the one in my early years of life who encouraged me to keep going when I failed. You were the first in line who cheered me on each success and happiest moments of my life. You always knew my heart. I will honor your memory all my days in many ways. One way is by reminding myself I am not above others and treat people with kindness no matter how hard that can be through situations I don't understand. Everyone has their own story. I will be here for our family and do the best I can with all my heart. You know this.

I love you, Sis
