“ As Ed’s neighbor in Carrington Greene I remember him for his sense of humor and his love for his wife, Helen. I would run into them both shopping in Kroger now and then, always together. My husband, Berl, was an avid UL fan and alumni, often shared stories with Ed of their favorite team! I will miss his smile so much.

“ Ed used to come into my clinic - Evergreen Animal Hospital quite often. He loved to grow peppers & always wanted me to try one which I unfortunately did. Prior to the ingestion, he told me that the pepper wasn't that hot & that I should be able to handle it just fine. Well I thought that I could handle spicy pretty well & Ed had me feeling up to the task. I started chewing on this harmless pepper until about the 3rd or 4th chew & then I saw Ed starting to laugh uncontrollably at my watering eyes & reddening face. He set me up good & I will never forget the burning sensation that lasted awhile. Ed was always a jokester which always attracted others to him. He will be missed dearly. Love, Brett Hornback DVM

This made me laugh out loud. The old "it's not that hot of a pepper trick". It was one of Dad's favorites! ❤️
