“ Growing up I remember sitting on the front porch of the Alreva family home every evening. I remember playing in the front yard and having Ella watching from her chair. I remember family dinners around the kitchen table when you were never late. I remember a house filled with all of the sounds of a family sharing. I remember an exceptionally strong woman who cared for her husband and her children before herself. I remember her laugh and that when she told anyone to do something, it was done. I had two Ella's in my life that shaped me from an early age. One was my mom Ella Jo and the other was Ella Mae. I will remember her with kindness and love for all the times she put up with the little kid from next door. My thoughts and prayers go out to the family and friends that have lasting loving memories. God Bless. Cynthia (Cindy-Cinder) Lee-Taylor.
