“ A giant of a man--and Emmett looked forward carefully to the future, understanding before most of us, that preserving freedom writings had to be done with great care. He will be missed. --Ed Buckner

“ Emmett and my dad, Joseph D. “ Don” Ruhs were kindred spirits many years. I recall a trip they took together to buy a van full of cacti from Texas and the southwest, and their return to Louisville to sell them. Perhaps that was during the +100-day strike the IAMAW had against GE in the late 1960’s. They shared philosophies and books, often attending similar functions or protests against organized religion. Dad just passed this morning at 12:02 am, 9/1/25, five days before his 90th birthday. Dan Ruhs
