“ I remember so many things about growing up with Eric. 3 things that stand out in my mind are when there was a tornado that was approaching Camp RABRO, we went into the shelter. I was crying because I was scared. He told me we would be fine and I trusted him. The second was coming back from RABRO and hanging out with him at his house playing GI Joe's. The third was when several of us guys dumped about $50 in quarters into playing Simpsons arcade at a camp trying to beat the game. None of us could do it. Then Eric came over and did it with a dollar. It was epic to say the least.

I will always treasure my times with him growing up. He played a part in who I am today.

Much love to his family and many prayers being said today.
