“ i always loved her so much and admired her. She was an independent and intelligent woman and was not afraid to take any challenges of life! She really was a person that I looked up to and also enjoyed spending time with. She was a very very talented writer and I admired that so much too. I wish I could have seen her move these past years but I know she knew I loved her. I want to be there for the family who I also love so much, Love Carol Sue
