“ I only met Herb when my father, his old police motorcycle partner, passed away three years ago. I heard only the coolest stories from my dad about he and Herb on the team and all their adventures. From the sound of it, they were simply legends. The both of the them were famous for saving Louisville Fire Chief Ray Thompson from one of Louisville's most deadly fires at Parkmore Bowling alley in about 1960. Herb and my father ran into the burning building and dragged out Rays lifeless body to safety. WAVE had a whole story back in 1994. Herd, RIP and I hope you and dad are giving heaven a little hell on those steel horses. RIP my friend! Greg Lickteig and family

“ My Dad, Charlie Lickteig, and Herb were partners and friends on the old Louisville Police Department. They rode on the motorcycle squad together. As a boy, I looked forward every time we visited, to see Herb’s speed bag in their basement and to be lined up with the other boys while Herb conducted inspection on us...lol. Herb was quite an artist too. Two of his works hang in Mom’s house as I write. Dad and Herb are finally riding together again. God bless and God speed. We love you and we’ll be together again! Prayers to Pat, Brook, Matt and Steven.
