“ He was the most honest and trustworthy person I have ever met. If you were in his circle, and it was a big circle, he had your back. I loved him with all my heart and feel so blessed to have had him in my life. I already feel so lost. We went everywhere together. But I know he is with Jesus who he spoke to everyday, his mom, and his brother Konrad. He always told me he was not afraid to die because he loved his Lord and would go home whenever He was ready for him. But I wasn't ready!

Wanda Wittmer - December 31, 2023 at 11:05 PM

We are never ready to take our arm from around those we love and never again feel the warmth of their embrace. I'm grateful that I had the opportunity to meet him, to witness and experience a few brief moments of the warmth and love you two shared together. It was beautiful to behold. It is heartbreaking that only memories of him hold you now. While Howard is Home, your lovely earthly home is filled with memories and moments of all the love you shared...and the absence of more must feel devastating. My deepest heartfelt condolences. My heart and prayers are with you. Here for you whenever you are ready
