Jim was a very sweet man. He sat behind my husband, Norm, and I in church at Louisville Baptist Church. We visited with him several times after his wife passed away. He was so interesting to talk to. Had lots of stories he shared. I visited him after he moved from his house to assisted living in Louisville. He would call me occasional to catch up on what was going on at church. I'm sadden to learn if his death, but happen to know he is in heaven where there is no more tears, pain, or death.
