“ Jane was almost my second mom. When I was just a small child of 4 or 5 I would seek her (and her husband Dick) out for the peace and calm that their household offered. Later, I remember going to their cabin on the lake. She was the nicest person, always willing to take the time to listen to me. Each time I would return to Louisville I would look them up to catch up on life. My mom, Doris Magrey, would always keep me current with events and happenings, including Dick and Jane. I wish her the very best and condolences to all those that were close to her.
