“ Mom. What can I say about Mom? When we first met she welcomed me into her home with her loving smile. I quickly realized she accepted me as one of her boys. Sitting at the dinner table and hanging outside on the patio or front porch chit chatting and laughing became routine.

She would talk about all the things she had seen in her lifetime. From the first colorized movie (The Wizard of Oz) to washing machines, television, microwaves, computers, and the first man on the moon. She witnessed a lot that only being part of the greatest generation could have.

Holidays and birthdays came and went then before I knew it I was married into the family and was officially one of her boys. All the years following, her and Dad were always there for Lisa and I as we raised our own family for which we'll always be grateful. She will be sadly missed, happily remembered, and always loved.

In loving remembrance,
John
