“ I was very saddened to hear of John's passing. I had long ago left Valley Station for the wider world beyond Kentucky, so I didn't know John as an adult. But I'll always remember John fondly as one of the rascals and scallywags right out of a Mark Twain novel that made up my teen years and friendships. Like the "Dukes of Hazzard" we were all just a bunch of "good ole boys never meanin' no harm" living the adventures of misfit teenage boys out for a good time without a care. John was very much a part of that long ago and far away place and I'll be praying for the soul of a lost friend. Hearing John's name brought back some very vivid funny wonderful memories. My deepest sympathies to the Drahos Family.
