“ Today makes 8 Christmas Holidays that you are no longer here, and we have suffered every year and every holiday since . Missing you terribly! Its gut wrinching day after day , year after year, hour after hour, and minute after minute. This Christmas has been especially hard. I won't elaborate on why, but financially too. I wonder how great life would still be if you were just here. If you could just come back. We were a happy family. We loved holidays and entertaining and hosting family. All those things are gone because you are gone and all our dreams, all your dreams and plans just finalized. No grandkids or weddings, but watching all the other nieces and nephews moving on. You were the first to get the big 5 year technical engineering degree! I was and still am so proud of that and proud of you. I wish there was time travel. I wish we could change this. I wish God would give you back! My heart is  forever!

Thinking on this Christmas Morning of what Christmas Eve and Christmas Day were like here at our house and how fedtive and fun things were and how much personality and witt you had. Charm and kindness! Life stopped here when your life stopped. Your brother misses you so much and will never be the person he could have been if Jesus would have just let the right thing happen and that would be competent professionals show up and do the right thing. You should still be here bouncing up the steps, going on vacations, but we have ceased doing anything except surviving!

I Miss you! i Love You! Merry Heavenly Christmas my special son! I Love You Kyle! Mom

“ Today is my baby's birthday! Kyle would have been 36 today. A day I always looked forward to, but now is empty without him! I never knew this day would ever hold such sorrow! The pain really never stops, never goes away!
I've learned, that TIME DOESN'T HEAL PAIN, LOSS OR GRIEF -
TIME JUST COVERS THE SCAR'S!
HAPPY HEAVENLY BIRTHDAY KYLE NATHAN! 🥹😞😞❤️🙏
I MISS YOU TERRIBLY!!

“ To my Son, today makes 2,557 days, 7 years today that we lost you. I've been unable to talk to you, or see you, to laugh with you, hug you, see where you would be today in 2025, no new memories. It totally sucks!

It's been a rough day for me today! I didn't sleep at all last night! I have cried all day! This is the first year I didn't have big plans all day or an event with family and friends. I missed doing anything today, bc I was so depressed and crying, that I didn't make it to the cemetery. I seem to have few people that understand my grief. I have a grief counselor, friends from my grief group, and some family, and sadly a best friend who lost her son one year ago this coming Saturday on the 19th. I wouldn't wish this on anyone, and she was my best friend in highschool and my maid of honor. We both had two sons, and both of our 2nd sons died in July, 5 days apart, but 6 years a part. It doesn't seem possible. You would have remembered her Kyle. She went with us to get Blue, our Yorkie.

Today, as we do every July 14th now, your brother, who missed you terribly and needs you Kyle, posts on Facebook pics of you, and your friends and his friends and family responded today with Dolin asking them what they would be doing today in 2025 if you Kyle were still alive. They had some great answers. Wish you were here to see them.

I wish still I would open your bedroom door and you would be in there, I still hear you say Mom, but feel as time goes on, I want you back and new memories! I'm still waiting for you to appear in a dream.

I will never get over this! My heart is  broken forever!! I still cry everyday!

I still talk about you every day!

I hate this day that took you from me!!

I Love You Kyle Nathan forever and look forward to seeing you in heaven someday. All I can say is Come Home Kyle, Please, yet I know God won't let you come back, although he can do anything, even the impossible.

Life is hard without you! You are missed so very much!

There couldn't be any worse pain for me. I never dreamed this *would happen to me or you. I still wish it wasn't real!!

Dad has started watching the stars and moon as you and I did in the middle of the night. Dad says you and he would be doing that together now, all four of us! Dad misses you, Dolin misses you, and I'll never stop missing you or wanting you back. There's a huge hole in my life! We wanted to be those parents that came over to your house and helped fix things up or visit, have grandkids, but would just settle for you. Nothing more!
Our life as yours will never be the same! I miss vacations with you! I miss everything we did together!
I Love You more than anything! To the heavens and back!
I Love you for eternity! Love Mum 📍📍📍📍📍📍📍📍📍📍📍📍*

“ To my precious loving son, this 2024 Christmas morning brings 2356 days of continued loss and grief. Pain that never stops. Oh, how we miss you! If only we could have you back. All we have are memories, those are nice, but having you here and knowing what you would be doing today and all of these days you've been gone, would be so much better.

I still cry everyday. I try not to, but it's just impossible. I just want to come home, and you be here, or call you and talk. Its still and forever will be unimaginable that this could have happened or be our reality. You were so full of life and your laugh, smile and personality radiant. So sad for you, you deserved way more time. We deserved more time with you. I am forever lost without you, as is your brother. I wish for a miracle, that will never come. I wish the pain would go away. I wish you could read what I post and know just how sad and heartbroken your Mom is.

You were sadly missed at our family gatherings this 🎄 Christmas and Thanksgiving. There's a forever empty space without you. Merry Heavenly Christmas Kyle Nathan. I Love You, Love you, Love You!

All I wanted for Christmas was for you to come home. Tears flow, until I can barely type this.. A Mom should never have to give their child back! Never! And I want you back. I'm sure as I type this, I know you would want to come back. There's always time to die, but you had tons of years to live out your dreams that were taken from you. You wanted to live to be 90, and should have been able to do that, then die. So unfair to you and us. If only we could go back. I wish there was such a thing as time travel. Visit me in a dream would be nice...or back in real life would be so much better. I grieve that others still have their children and that I have to watch them have so much happiness and new memories everyday, and listen to them talk about it or see it. That hurts so much too.

I Love You Kyle❤️❤️❤️

I will never forget you ever. Not for even a second or a minute.

I Love You, Mum 🥺😞🙏❤️

“ July 14, 2024

Today we are at 2,192 days since we last saw, spoke to, spent time with, laughed with, vacationed with, made new memories with, hugged him, or told him how much we love him, and need him, our Son and brother.

I'm not sure which is worse, the weeks leading up to Kyle's death date, or the actual day.

Those around me, don't even acknowledge or remember the date unless I mention it and rarely comment. Its for them as if he never was, because their life is perfect and they have not been blessed with this curse in their life. Their life goes on with their kids and all the dreams I had as a mother and parent.

Nothing changed. In 6 years, which still seems like it can't be real life, it is, because all the bargaining with God to give him back, has never worked.

I still cry every single day. If you think for a minute that I'm ok, your would be so wrong. Whatever I'm doing or who I'm with, I'm not the same person socially. It may seem I am, but I pretend my way through this world, this unfair gift. I fake being happy and just internally wait to get home or away to cry. All I see is what I no longer have in my face. I can't let it go. I never will. If you have your kids and are blessed with not losing one, you should understand and wonder if it was you, would you want to be able to speak of your lost child and others be open forever hearing things about them. It could happen to you. People are so self centered that they can't even begin to understand.

Losing a child means losing friends and some family because they just don't include you anymore. At times, I don't want to be included because its painful.

It's a daily loss for myself and his brother, my only son left.

I wish I had something better to say, like its getting better for us or me, but its not. Our life now is forever on hold and the memories of Kyle are 6 years old. No new memories for someone who wanted to live to be 90 and had so many travel plans and adventures to obtain. God doesn't owe me anything, I now know that, but still at times am still angry and frustrated that there is not anything better *happening for my other son because Kyle is gone.

Today I mourn Kyle as I have for 2,192 days.
Today, I want to find him in his room at home, playing his guitar, hanging out. I want to hear him bouncing up the steps with exciting news about something, his great career or a trip we were all going on, or him having a family and kids, grandkids I'll never have.
I LUV YOU KYLE ❤️!!!!*

COME HOME KYLE, COME HOME

“ On this Christmas Morning, it makes the 6th Christmas we have had to spend Christmas and every sad holiday without Kyle. I thought in some ways time would make it at least some easier, but that in no way has happened. Grief just doesn't stop. It's daily as are the tears. Memories can't replace someone and memories are all I have, no new ones, or knowing what Kyle's life would be now and ours if he were still here. I'm broken and have forgotten how to be happy. It's a forever fight to just get through each day. I'll never understand why Kyle, why us. I wish he would just come home, but he's at his forever home with Jesus on today, Jesus's birthday. But I want him here. It's just not fair. Nothing about it.

I LUV U Kyle and want you back. I miss your smile, and your voice and all your great ways. I miss watching movies with you and taking vacations or daily seeing you and all your tech help. Your room is as you left it. There was no one like you. So tall, handsome and funny, such an amazing kindness and great personality. Dolin, Dad, and I miss you so much. There's a huge hole in our lives that can never be filled again. Only hope to see you again in heaven. That is hope we can be assured of. Other hope for our ruined life is just hard to believe. Things just seem worse, sad, and I can't really believe in hope. I can't remember how to be happy and not sure I ever will again. I just pretend my life as if I'm happy when I have to. It's just what I'm forced to do. I have no choice.

Have a heavenly Christmas with Jesus today. I wish your Christmas was with me, with us today. 🥀🥀🥀🥀 Forever and ever broken, your Mom, I LUV U as tears consume me. Home has never been the same without you!

Merry heavenly Christmas my wonderful Son 🥀😭😞😞

“ Well it seems I wasted time posting my memory of Kyle today. Just over an hour ago it posted and now it's not there. I will try again, but am sure I will miss something I wanted to say. Today is 1,631 days, 5 long years since we lost my dear son. His brother and I miss him terribly. It's unbelievable it's been 5 years, but believable, because he's no longer here. It's heartbreaking over and over, day by day, minute by minute. I wonder what we would be doing, what Kyle would be doing if he was here. A Mom waits for their children to become adults and watch them live out their dreams. Yet all that work to raise them then they are snatched away. Why? I really want to know. I want to ask. But God is in charge and allowed this to happen. I still cry daily and never stop missing him or thinking of him. It comes in Waves. And today, I'm drowning! Like most every day. Hope. I try to have hope, but how can you have hope when nothing will change this and this changed everything. Our entire life. We try each year to do something in memory of Kyle. Something he liked to do or a favorite place or restaurant. Or a bucket list item. This year we went to Nic And Normans new restaurant. Kyle would have loved it and the food. Our waitress was superb! She was very thoughtful and took pics of us to remember this year. We visited Kyle at the cemetery and put some flowers in front of his stone that I grew behind his rock garden at home we made for him. We took Granny back to assisted living where she now lives. We had a really nice time sharing memories of Kyle, but having him here making new memories would be so much better. But we take what we have. We don't recover. We just adjust. Dolin and I also visited Melissa and kids. Those things helped us through this tough day. As Kyle's Mom, I will never get over this. It's impossible. I hate July. I hate holidays. I hate things for our family will never be the same. My heart is  broken permanently. Dolin and I struggle. Dolin helps me through on some tough days. I just want you to come home. Come back. I LUV U Kyle! You will always be in my heart and life forever even if your not here. This pain is horrible. The fact that I can't see you or talk to you or hug you or laugh with you is torture. Heavenly Kyle, until I see you again, Mum LUVS You 💔 as does Granny and your brother DOLIN 😞😞😞💔🎸🙏 You had the most handsome face son and beautiful smile and laugh. You were perfect!

“ 1631 days today. Oh, how could it be?

As everyone else celebrates a new year to look forward to, I suffer every minute I breathe, every moment of everyone else's happiness, listening, watching as everyone else's life continues. As their children and grand children continue to live on. As I listen to how they are all doing. As those I helped and raised in my home live on with terrible pasts. Why God picked me? Why God picked you Kyle? And how insensitive people and family can be and those so called life friends who never call or never send a card. Just get over it they say. No one wants to hear about my son. They forget because it didn't happen to them. It's not like I want it to happen to them either. I wouldn't wish this pain on even an enemy!

When it happened, when you died Kyle, people assured me they would be there for me. I told them at the funeral home, don't even say it, a few weeks after this you can't fulfill that promise. It never happens. It's good intentions, but you have your own life. And that's just the trith.

If you have one true friend in life that's a gift. Just one.

I'm blessed with one best friend that I have had for 48 years. She doesn't live close and is busy with a grand child, so I don't see her often, but we talk and text and vacationed together. She's the best! Her whole family welcomes Dolin and I to all family get togethers. They consider us family. I just was with them last week for her brother in law's funeral. Thank God for her, my best friend.

Then I have friends from grief counseling, two that are great friends, and a great friend that I love we got one of our rescue dogs from that lives in Ohio. We text weekly. Those things are good, but nothing replaces my SON sadly! 😭😞😞

I MISS YOU TERRIBLY KYLE!!!

WORDS CAN'T DESCRIBE OR TELL YOU OR THE WORLD OR GOD HOW MUCH!

I'M STILL WAITING FOR YOU TO COME HOME FOR CHRISTMAS, FOR HOLIDAYS, FOR JUST A DAY, EVERY DAY 😭
I KNOW THE REALITY OF THIS. THE PAIN. AND THAT IT WON'T HAPPEN. BUT I PRETEND ANYWAY WITH DISAPPOINTMENT

OVER AND OVER.

I CRY DAILY AND JUST FAKE HAPPINESS IN WHAT I'M DOING OR WHERE I'M AT OR WHO I'M WITH.

I VISIT YOU WEEKLY AT THE CEMETERY, THAT'S PAINFUL
I HAVE A FRIEND THERE THAT LOST HER SON THAT'S BEHIND YOU.

SHE'S A GOOD CHRISTIAN FRIEND AND I AM THANKFUL FOR HER. NO

MOM SHOULD HAVE TO GIVE BACK HER CHILD!!

DOLIN MISSES YOU AND NEEDS YOU KYLE. I NEED YOU AND SO MISS YOUR HAPPY UPBEAT PERSONALITY. THERE WAS NO ONE LIKE YOU!

GOD BLESSED ME WITH TWO GREAT SONS, KYLE AND DOLIN. WHY HE TOOK YOU BACK I WILL NEVER GET OVER.
NEVER!!

NO HAPPY NEW YEAR FOR US.

NO HAPPY NEW YEAR FOR YOU.

YOU WANTED TO LIVE TO BE 90 AND DESERVED TO. WHY
GOD? WHY?

I WILL NEVER FORGET YOU KYLE AND I WILL NEVER STOP
TALKING ABOUT YOU OR STOP CRYING FOR YOU.

EVERYTHING IN MY DAILY LIFE REMINDS ME OF YOU.

REMINDS ME YOUR NOT HERE. REMINDS ME THERE ARE NO
NEW MEMORIES. JUST CONSTANT PAIN IN MY HEART ❤️

ONLY KNOWING GOD AND HAVING HIM TO TURN TO AND BEING A CHRISTIAN IS THE ONLY WAY I COULD POSSIBLY LIVE ON AND EVEN THAT'S STILL HARD BUT COMFORTING TO KNOW I WILL SEE YOU AGAIN MY SON, I WILL BE WITH YOU AGAIN.

I LUV YOU AS MUCH AS ALWAYS AND FOREVER. I'LL NEVER STOP WRITING YOU OR STOP HURTING!

“ Today is 1460 days, 4 solid years of not seeing you, hugging you, talking to you, spending precious time with you, making no new memories, only the memories we have.

It's a tough day today as is everyday since you left us. I continue to cry everyday, at work, in the car, at home, it never gets any easier. Family and others don't understand really, those who haven't had to give one of their children back, and I wouldn't wish it on anyone.

I wish you we're here on earth today. I am so proud of your accomplishments! Your 5 all year long years at college no summer breaks and right out of highschool getting your Technical Engineering Degree. Always working hard, never missing work and working after work to help others with their tech issues.

That is not all that made you special. You had a unique personality and always believed the best in people.

Life for us has forever changed. Everyday things to Holidays are unimportant now. We just don't care since your absent.

A broken promise caused this. My motto as a Mom, and I was always a great Mom to you and Dolin, was never break a promise to my sons. I didn't, only once and don't understand how I let it happen

"He who answers before listening, that is his folly and shame"
(Proverbs 18:13)

We had the whole weekend planned and a friend broke their promise to you, then work asked me to work and I was on vacation and said yes because I always felt I had to. Biggest mistake of my entire life. Wish I could change it.

"Please don't go" you said multiple times to me. Lets look at our last Disney pics we haven't looked at yet. Even family doesn't believe I could have not heard you needed me. I prayed to God but didn't listen. One time and such a tragedy.

I wait for you to be on the porch with you guitar, or bouncing up the stairs, or heading out on one of your travel adventures, just going places with you, being with you. You were so intelligent. I loved talking with you and learning new things.

We will never get to do all the things we we're planning, but Dolin and I have done some of the bucket lists things.

Today we will go place flowers at your grave and spend some time with you, then go try one of those Cuban sandwiches you raved about. It won't be the same without you. Every year we've planned a big event with lots of guests, but this year not.

I feel I will never stop crying and wish God would give you back to me. No Mother should have to give her Child back! It's the worst pain.

I LUV U Kyle and miss you every second. I know your in Heaven with our Heavenly Father, but I still want you here.

Everywhere I go I look for you and others go on with their life and kids. No wedding, no grandkids, no buying the house you were going to and all the things you had for your house, what to do with them.

Come Home Kyle ... Come Home!

I am forever  broken!!

I LUV U, so sorry the wrong people came and didn't help you in the end. LUV U Mum &Dolin

Carina Bickett - July 14, 2022 at 11:28 AM

“ My sweet precious Son Kyle, today is Christmas Eve. Its 3 years, 5 months, 10 days of complete misery and pain! Everyday is a challenge to just live.

I'm still waiting to wake up from this injustice. Praying each day for God to let you come to me in a dream. Waiting patiently. I pray it happens soon.

I live a pretty quiet sad life of new friends that I didn't want. These are parents who have lost a child also. At first this was in some ways comforting because I had no one else. Those in the nice Christian church group/a business involved seemed to be real comforting people of God. Only to find if your not rich there are different rules for those. It seems one has unjustly judged me . And sadly one that I felt the closest to and trusted that she was my friend. Have something out of your control happen to you and then see how someone really is. How they treat you. Only God can judge a person, so I pray God weighs upon her heart and I am wrong about her. Days will tell.

But this is about you and missing you. If you were here I wouldn't even be involved with these people.

I am so blessed with 3 other families I work for that are a blessing from God. Wealthy, God fearing, Christian good awesome people who know me and love me and understand about you. So generous and I am not measured by what I have compared to them. I am thankful for them daily!

So today we gather for Christmas Eve where you will be absence in body, but I will keep you alive with my tshirts and my persistence of your memories. Holidays are never the same ever. Our traditions are forever broken. All the holidays and traditions we looked forward to and lived have died. New painful ones now exist.

Unless you are a parent who has lost a child you just don't get it. It's different than a parent or even a spouse. No Mother should have to give their child back! I ask God why us? Why you? Why God? But he doesn't answer. We are not in charge. God works in his own time.

Grief is like I'm living two lives!

One is where I pretend that everything is OK, and the other is where MY HEART SILENTLY SCREAMS IN PAIN!!!

I miss everything about you Kyle. Your guitar playing out on the porch, star gazing in the middle of the night, binge watching series, last minute trips out of town, Disney, will miss you marrying, grandkids, your quick wit and funny side, you bouncing up the stairs with new tech news. Always teaching me. So smart with a 5 year college degree. Such a brain. I miss everything about you every minute of every day. I relive your death daily. Come home Kyle. Come home. I wish. My heart and life are broken forever and yours has stopped. I believe your with Jesus and we will see eachother again. Only wish I still had you here. People say he's safe in heaven. That is the ultimate goal after death, but I wanted you here longer and God did not answer ny orayer. Because he's in charge. Have a heavenly Christmas and I pray you think of me of us today. I love you to the moon and back to the heavens and back and kniw you lived me unconditionally! I was a great Mom and you were and still are a great and exceptional SON!!

You should still be here. I forever will continue to blame myself.

“ It's been 2 years 5 months 8 days since I last spoke to you in this world. It's still so painful and so not real. I still wait for you to come home and walk through the door. This can't be real life. I want you here with me with us. There is no comfort. Each day is a struggle. Holidays are not anything anymore. It's so sad for us at home. No Christmas this year. No decorations other than a small memory tree for you with ornaments brought by family members last year that reminded them of you.

I'm here at the cemetery where I spend many days a week here. No huge 12ft tree with the house totally decorated as always. This covid year we are not having family in for Christmas Eve. Everyone is staying away to be safe. It's fine with me because as I said Holidays suck all of them.

You should be here Kyle. It's so unfair. It seems those that shouldn't be are and you my precious son are not.

“ Thank you to everyone who showed up for the 2 year anniversary date of Kyle's death.

It was a celebration of Kyle's life. It was a great turn out with lots of friends and family. There were many memory stories told of Kyle, happy memories. There were videos and lots of pics taken. We had 2 gazebos, lots of chairs, pizza, food, snacks, drinks, balloons and beautiful roses. Food reflected Kyle's favorites. It was to last 2-5 pm but was so successful, it lasted 1pm to almost 7 pm. If you missed it, you missed a great time. Hopefully you can make it next year. Thank you again for remembering Kyle ❤️

“ Today is July 14, 2020

Exactly 2 years since we lost our precious Kyle. Doesn't seem real or possible. Doesn't seem like real life. It's a forever hole in my heart with tears never stopping. Daily at every turn. Anything that is just everyday life starts the tears, because reality is he's not here. I haven't spoken to him in 2 years, yet still wait for him to come home. I will never recover, just adjust. Life for us has forever changed. I so need Kyle back. Miss him so terribly. I LUV U Kyle, Luv Mum 💔😭🙏🎸 praying to God for peace and for your heavenly days. Wish you could come back.

“ My precious Son,
My Kyle,

I posted a post on Saturday March 14, 2020, but it didn't show up, so I am posting again.

On Saturday March 14, 2020 it was exactly 20 months since you left us. The Friday before was the Friday the 13. Those exact days and dates have come up for the first time since you left us on this March 13 & 14. I never believed in Friday the 13th as bad luck and have always made that clear, and still don't, it just happened to occur that way.

My Kyle, Mum misses you still every second of every day! I never sleep and have only dreamed of you twice. I pray to dream of you. The pain has not gotten any easier 😞

I cry daily. After work, on the way home, everywhere. Home is not home anymore, nothing is the same and never will be. Holidays and everyday life is forever changed. It leaves nothing to look forward to for those traditions we had as a family. There's a huge hole that can never be filled again. I want you back here in Earth with me. With us. You had so much life ahead of you. My heart 💔💔 is forever broken!

The only comfort I have is knowing your in heaven with your heavenly Father and for that I know I will see you again.

However, I still don't believe you should be gone or that it was your time. I want you back. You were the life of our house with your quick wit and just super fun and kind personality. No Mother should have to give back their child. I should have gone before you. I just want to fix this, change this, talk to you, make more memories with you, but sadly I just struggle to live.

I miss you terribly 😞😞

The pain is at times too much.

I spend time in grief group and counseling, but it can't resolve what God decided.

God, my faith, church, and barely anyone to listen or understand is what I am left with. God and Faith is my Rock. Dolin of course misses you, granny, and other family members. Watch over us. I pray daily to give you our love in heaven.

I can barely go in your room. It's always licked. If it's open we think your in your room, so it remains licked. I talk to you outside your door and cry daily. I go to the cemetery every Tuesday and Wednesday and on weekends. Anytime I can. Soon in April the cemetery will be back to staying open until 7pm instead of 5pm because it will be light out longer. I will be glad when that happens. I wish Brittany would come visit me.

It doesn't seem real. I wish this was not my real life 💔 and I could go back to having you here. I miss your voice, your text, our phone calls, and new things you taught me daily.

Mum Luvs U Kyle!!!

Mum misses you 😭💔🎸🙏

I miss you playing your guitars!

Miss your hugs and your presence.

Luv U, Son, Mum 💔😭🎸🙏

“ My precious Son,
My Kyle,
On Sunday July 14, 2019, just less than 2 days ago, you have been gone one year.

We planned a gathering that turned out well.
It seems we should of been celebrating you LIVED!!!
BUT....that is not the case.

You are with Jesus and no longer suffering.
I am left here suffering and blaming myself daily and just wanting you here on Earth with me...with us. All of us are grieving still.

The sun doesn't shine the same anymore for me, life's Joy's are all taken away. Everything is forever ruined for us. No event or holiday or daily life will ever be joyous for us.

The gathering Sunday turned out lots of family and a few of your true real friends. Those so called friends you thought were your friends didn't show up or respond. My how fast we tend to be forgotten. But blessed are those that showed up and spent the afternoon and then on to our home into the AM hours to share stories of you Kyle and memories. It was a beautiful day at the cemetery under our gazebo tent we brought, chairs, drinks, snacks, biodegradable balloons to release for you and the presence of God. Balloons were released with messages straight to heaven where you now reside with Jesus your Lord and Savior. Our Lord and Savior.

I still want you here on Earth, but I can't fix that because I am not God and I am not in charge.

I miss you terribly 🥺💔🥺🥺
Everyday every second
I Luv You, Kyle

Luv, Mum 💔😭💔😭🎸🙏

*My precious Son,
My Kyle,*

Today is exactly 20 months since you left this Earth. Left us behind. Nothing is any easier. I grieve daily, cry daily, and pray for peace. My heart is forever 💔 broken, until I see you again in heaven. I pray to dream of you, but only twice early that happened. Since then, no dreams of you.

I spend alot of time at the cemetery and at grief group and church. I spend time in your room, but not much, I can't bare to go in your room. I talk to you outside your door and cry daily driving home from work. It's hard to come home, home is not the same without you! The house and our life has totally changed. Nothing is going to ever be the same. Our life and holidays and activities are missing YOU!!! We can't fix that, but wish we could. You were the life of our house. My best friend. I miss you terribly!!

I wish you were still here on Earth. I feel robbed of a life you should of had and we should have had with you!

I wish Brittany would visit me.

Kyle, your in God's hands, which I am forever thankful for. Thankful for Jesus and his sacrifice and for 🙏 your profession of faith. Knowing I have lost you here on Earth, I have the peace of knowing I will see you again in heaven.

Although I still want you here on Earth and don't understand why you had to be taken.

I miss you every second of every day, every breath I breathe. I never sleep. I Luv you Son, I Luv you Kyle!!!💔🎸😭🙏

Sometimes I say why God?

Why Kyle?

Why us?

Luv U, Mum 🙏😭😭💔

It's will be 7months Friday. Seems impossible! Seems still unreal. It just isn't true. It's the absolute worse thing that has ever happened in my entire life and has completely ruined happiness for me forever. Nothing will ever be the same ever again. Life just doesn't seem worth living anymore.

“ Dear Kyle,
196 days
28 weeks

Tears continue to flow each and every day. My sorrows are to many. My heart breaks over and over every single day 💔.

Your were such a compassionate soul! So kind and loving. My rock! I talk to you every day and wish you would call or come home.

Wishing we could go back. Wishing for you what you looked so forward to that was so abruptly taken away from you at the last minute. Wishing I had stepped in and fixed it for you so you could have enjoyed the event, your favorite band. Wish for you a friend that listened, that helped, that would have been there for you, that would have cared enough for you and for us too to let us know. Real friends try and save you, not help destroy you. You were a great friend to everyone and always there for everyone. I was always there for you and you for me. I am so sorry no friends cared enough to help you as you helped them until the unthinkable happened. I forgive all of them and pray they will think of someone besides themselves and to be called a true friend you make sacrifices to be there for your real friend. Do that in the future if you have the chance. My only advice.

Kyle should still be here! I suffer every day because he's not. Our life, Mark, Dolin, and me, his Mom that loved him unconditionally, will never be the same. It's a loss that we will never get over!

I miss you Kyle! I Luv you to Heaven and back and will see you in heaven when it's my time. I pray your friends, all of them will find Jesus in their lives and change so they may one day see you again as I will.

You Kyle never spoke bad of anyone and were an awesome human being! An awesome Son. My Son!

I will write you soon again? Luv Mum 💔🎸😭🙏

“ December 26, 2018

A mother's heart break. A families heart break.

Christmas and all celebrating will never be the same ever again.

Dad, Dolin and I spent 3 days this week at the cemetery. We spent Christmas Eve at your grave and Christmas Day at your grave. We reserved your place on the couch where you always sit at Christmas for you. It will always remain reserved for you for all occasions as a reminder you are missing. It was not your time Kyle! You should still be here! Everything in our home and away from home is quite and sad. We miss your energy, your laugh, your hugs, you...just you and everything about you. I could never be more proud of you Son! You were so smart and always working hard. You were always up for an adventure and ready to go anywhere at the last minute with me or anyone. A great friend to all, even if they weren't always there when you needed you were there for them. The most positive kind caring individual I know. God needed to leave you here on earth with us for much longer.

I still wait and wish you would come through the door or be in your room.

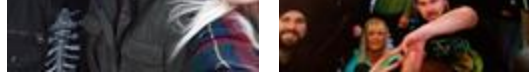

I spent Christmas night in your room for hours crying and unconsolable. Pretty much still cry everyday all day through out the day. I just can't stop.

It was your first Christmas in heaven. It was our first Christmas without you. I know you are in heaven, but I still wanted you here with me. I want this life I have been unfairly handed to be untrue. Not real life. I want to go back and fix this.

I LUV YOU KYLE! You were my Son, my rock, my best friend! My life now is therapy, prayers, and church grief groups of parents of loss of child. Not at all what I wanted. Not that it will ever help to bring you back or fix it. The hole will never heal, but praying and meeting with others in the same unwanted situation sometimes helps.

I miss you and LUV YOU KYLE, LUV, Mum!

“ 161Days/23weeks

So Christmas is in a few days now and can't wait for it to be over! There are no decorations at our home this year and the huge family get together is canceled. No Christmas Eve Bash like usual. Can't bear you not bouncing up those stairs and popping in and playing guitar and singing. Can't bear you are not here and never again will you grace us with your presence here on Earth. Your first Christmas in Heaven. I just want you back here with me. With us. It's forever changed everyone's life and happiness. Every holiday every single day and moment is no longer fun or happy to look forward to. You should still be here Kyle! It wasn't your time. You said you wanted to live to be 90. So why oh why did God take my baby? It's just not fair. It's just not real.

And oh for the so called people who pretend to care from a far and some family, close family that have never even sent me a sympathy card. The pain those who have no pain leave on us who have lost. Dad, Dolin, and Mom put a beautiful little Christmas tree on your grave. Aunt Becky bought it and Dad and I did the ribbons with your name etc on them. Then we all 3 went home and cried and went to bed. Justin was there at the grave to see you. We spent about an hour there with him. Cory Ward came by on Sunday along with John Smothers to watch wrestling with Dolin.

Our home is quite and sad and broken because you are gone. It seems worse instead of better over time. I had days at work this week where I couldn't breathe. Thought I was going to have to go home. Terrible anxiety attacks and medicine not helping in those times

Talk to me Kyle. My heart is broken forever as is my life now. I hate myself. I hate this life on Earth without you.

I pray you have a heavenly Christmas with Jesus and that you are happy. We are not happy. But still pray you are and safe in Jesus arms.

I will try and remember Christmas past of you as a child up to last year putting ornaments on our tree. We could of never dreamed this would come to us. Come to you.

I will spend time with you at the grave Christmas Day and everyday

I can

Hopefully your monument will soon be up. It's taking a long time. I Luv You Kyle, to the moon and back to the heavens and back. Wish I could see you on the porch when I get home from work today. Wish I could hug you and kiss you and hold you in my arms. The world is not the same without you!! Life is not the same without you!

“ My precious Son Kyle,
Tomorrow on Friday November 30th 2018, it will be 140 days/20 weeks since you left us. I can only tell you it's harder each day, not easier. I miss you every second of every day, every minute I continue breathing. A stolen life taken way to soon. So unfair! None of our lives will ever be the same! But it seems everyone else's will be just fine.

Family members, a few, and my close friends are not there for me. And your friends or so called friends have went on with their lives. It's a very lonely path for us 3 left behind. Even long distance friends are not very sympathetic. It's expected. No one could imagine the pain of losing a child, it's unnatural to bury a child. The parent should go first. You were such a great son and great friend to all. It's ashamed that in the end your friends were not really there for you. I miss you every day when I come home from work, everyday I wake up or try to sleep. Everything is so quiet at home and your cars sit unused. I still find it hard to go in to your room. I cry every day still. It hits all day in waves. I spent Thanksgiving at your grave alone. Oh, how my life has forever changed.

I know you are in heaven with Jesus, but still wanted you here. I pray for those many numbers of your lost friends who are non believers and even your cousins that they may see the light and return to God's word and believe that their only hope of seeing you again and salvation is to give up their ridiculous ideas of thinking there is no God. It will be a daily prayer I pray continually until my last breath.

There will be no decorating or Christmas gathering for us this year. No guitar playing by you and your cousins or you playing the piano or singing. So we opt out this year and not sure if we will be able to ever do it again. Your missing and that can't be filled for Dolin or me or dad.

I send you my Luv snd all of our Luv!
LUV YOU KYLE!!! Mum, Dolin, & Dad

I stand here celebrating what would of been your 29th birthday today. Except it's not at home or with you, it's at your grave..
Balloons and family and friends yesterday and today. I look at your pic of last year's 28th birthday and could never imagine that one month before your 29th birthday you would no longer be here with me. Home is no longer home for Dolin or Me. I just want you here. I just want you back now. It still can't be real. Dear God, I am so heart broken and forever sad. No Mom should have to suffer this unbearable loss and pain. No one could understand it. Happy Birthday my blessed Son who now has a home with Jesus in heaven. I LUV YOU! I remember his mom and I going to flea market and we would talk

“ I didn't know Kyle for very long, but the short time that we had together as friends will always be very precious to me.

I will forever cherish memories of him showing me and my husband music videos of the latest band he was into, and the post-Thanksgiving get-together we had, laughing and playing Cards Against Humanity with Cory. Watching his creative, hilarious performances with Sketchy Stuff was super fun as well!

He had a great sense of humor and a positive outlook on life, and was always there when we needed someone to talk to, or just shoot the breeze. He also introduced us to good place to eat wings!

It was always a pleasant surprise to see his smiling face at our door, and I sure will miss just hanging out with him. He made me and my husband Frank feel so welcome and loved. We will forever treasure his friendship. His absence leaves a hole in our hearts that no one else can fill.

Kyle, you will be forever missed.

“ Kyle was my very first love. My High school sweetheart.
I oftentimes find myself still thinking of him.
A song will come on and immediately take me back to the good ol
days.
The Doors, Light My Fire.
Pink Floyd, Wish you were here.
I remember us lying on the floor of your room in the dark with that album on repeat. Not a care in the world. Only living in that very moment.
Life was perfect.
Young love.

Kyle had been heavy on my mind the past few weeks, I so badly wanted to send him a quick message to to say hello....but I was always too timid.
Now I have to live with that regret.

I know for certain that Kyle made a huge positive impact on everyone he came into contact with.
His soul was beautiful. The memories he leaves behind are filled

My heart BREAKS for you. This life feels so unfair at times. I know you are tired of hearing all the generic sentiments. The phrase 'sorry' doesn't even begin to heal the pain.

I do want you to know that you are so very loved and supported through this time of heartache.

28 years was not alot of time but in his 28 years on this earth, he spread tons of positivity and light.

I feel blessed to have spent some of those years with him.

He made more than an impact on my life.

Not a day goes by that I don't think about him. There is always something that stirs up memories of he and I.

Music is the biggest one.

So, let him live on through music. One day the songs will replace the tears with a smile.

I am sending so much love your way right now.

Stay strong and always remember that you are not alone in this.

“ Kyle and I only knew each other for little over a year but in that small time he accepted me for who i was and it didn't take me long to realize i made a friend for life. Kind people like him are rare in this world and i will cherish all the time we got together in this life for a long as i live. Rest in peace my friend.

“ He was one of our coworkers at Norton's- I am so devastated to hear of his passing, he was compassionate soul, quick with his wit and slow to judge others, the world should be so lucky to have more of him. My prayers and sympathies.
