“ Please accept my sincere condolences on the passing of your mother. It is a painful trial we must endure when we lose a parent. Our parents have been the anchors of our lives, always there for us, offering their absolute and unconditional love. When one passes on, it is as if our anchor chain has been cut and we have been set adrift. May the pain of your loss evolve to the warmth of your memories and may you find at least some solace in the support you receive from your caring friends.
