“ I am deeply saddened by the news of Mike's passing. Mike and I have been friends since maybe 1998. I was a musician in the Louisville area. I first met him as I was playing a gig at R Place Pub - one of his favorite places to play pool. I opened the show with "City of New Orleans". As I played it, I noticed a guy playing pool, drinking his Diet Coke with no ice, and starting to focus on the song. On my first break, Mike approached me and told me he appreciated the song. We started talking music and have been friends ever since then. Mike and I wrote a song together called "Still Say No" and loosely worked on others. I recorded "Still Say No" a few years ago and sent a copy to Mike. We shared a mutual pride in that. Over the years, especially after I left Louisville, Mike and I would go for long periods without talking as we were both busy with life, but the bond was still there. We would tend to pick up where we left off each time we spoke. About 3 weeks ago, we spoke on the phone for about an hour about politics, women, music, etc. I miss him already. My sincere prayers and condolences to Mike's family.
