“ Martha is unable to type but wants the Korfhage family to know that there are so many pleasant memories of a past that still brings smiles & warmth to mind. Martha remembers the special way she always felt when the family did anything for her & it was always done with care. She loved the banner that Junior made for "Little Biff" when he came home from the navy. Everything seemed to be done just in the right way and with a touch of elegance. The tears flow but the joy and "good times" past really anchor her kindest thoughts of the family.
