

Sean McAdam

March 14, 1973 - May 11, 2022

Sean was effortlessly charming and had an easy way about him that made him a friend to many. He was not shy about telling the people he loved that he loved them.

He was an adoring father to Nathan, the love of his life. He was a fair to middling husband but an exceptional ex-husband. He was a brother to a sister completely enamored with him and a super fun uncle who was very strong and could throw you way high in the air. He was a veteran of the US Coastguard, Elite Platypus Team; Dad joke enthusiast and a pretty good cook.

Sean was inappropriate in the very best way. You had to be hyper vigilant when talking with him. Any slip of the tongue could and would be imbued with innuendo. See what we did there? We said slip of the tongue! See, it's funny because...well, nevermind. #SlipOfTheTongue #ThatsWhatSheSaid

Sean was a lifelong devoted fan of all things University of Kentucky. We feel certain that he would like to remind everyone that Rex Chapman is the greatest UK basketball player in the history of ever, Christian Laettner should have been ejected and UofL only has two NCAA Men's Basketball titles. Go Cats!

Sean was preceded in death by his father, Francis McAdam from whom he inherited his cocky Irish grin and his mother, Jean Clark McAdam from whom he inherited his disdain for most green vegetables.

He is survived by his son, Nathan McAdam, his baby mama ex-wife, Stacy McAdam, his regular ex-wife, Debbie McAdam, his sister, Kelley (Perry) Hudson, nieces, Audrey, Madeline and Lucy Hudson, several aunts, cousins, friends and his brothers and sisters at Louisville Fire and Rescue.

If you are inclined to honor Sean in some meaningful way, may we suggest a shirtless and unnecessarily unpleasant workout, enjoying a strawberry Pop Tart slathered in butter, perhaps learn a new word and work it into conversation ad nauseum (some of his favorites were copious, plethora, proletariat and behemoth), and finally let the people you love know that you love them.

Memorial visitation for Sean will be 3pm-8pm Tuesday and Wednesday at Owen Funeral Home - Jeffersontown, 9318 Taylorsville Road.

In lieu of flowers, Sean's family asks that you consider a donation in his honor to Supporting Heroes, Kentucky Organ Donor Affiliates or your favorite charity.

“ My daughter and I stopped at the firehouse in July 2018 and met Sean. He was the most positive and encouraging person I have ever met. We became long distance friends but lost touch in the last year while I was in nursing school. I will forever regret that. Rest easy brother.

“ The story that will go down in history, “ The famous green bean sandwich caper”. Enough said 🤔💖 It was a joy taking care of you & Kelley, we had so much fun on all our adventures. Praying God’s peace & comfort for all those who will miss that sense of humor & those eyes, those beautiful eyes. Love the Haburne family

“ Sean, my cousin, wanted to get together with my wife, Whitney and I. In Sean’s eyes, what better way to bond then to join him at a CrossFit session? By the end of the class, my wife was hovered over in pain, and I proceeded to the parking lot to throw up. Needless to say, we never went back and our get togethers, thereafter, included lunch or dinner dates. Miss you Sean.

“ I remember Sean well. He always had me laughing in the hall at Audubon when he picked up Nathan. Sean knew how to make people laugh, he loved life and Nathan. He will be missed. I'm thinking about you Nathan and Stacy. You are in my prayers.

“ The McAdam sense of humor is a thing to behold. :) I know he would be so happy with this tongue-in-cheek obit and would want you to remember him with jeers instead of tears. All that aside, I'm so sorry for your devastating loss, Kelley, Audrey, Maddie, Lucy, and Nathan.
