“ It has been almost a month now yet it seems as though you are still here. Things are supposed to change after yet everything still feels that you are still sitting in the garage waiting for her to come home. Not sure that feeling will ever pass. I only wish you could have realized how much you were loved

“ There will never be anything that will be as precious as you falling out of the ceiling of the shed into Jason's arms and you and he bringing that kitten home to me. You two made my heart soar. I love you.

There is a big void in my life. You define the meaning of Friend, I learned a lot from you. As your friend, knowing you can't be here, I will always defend your name, until the day I join you. Thank you for the endless laughs, for the many memories, you will be greatly missed!

“ Steven is my son in law but he was my son there isn't enough space for my memories What I want to remember the most is how deep he loved and. Cared about people. He always went out of his way to help homeless and never hesitated to comfort me when I was down. Yes we had our hard times but in the end he is still my son I loved you Steven to the end and will forever
