“ Dear Family,

I am sorry for the loss of your family member, a veteran, tried and proven in the Vietnam War. As a skilled craftsman, he has left a trail of memorials. We will think of him with each masonry project that we view in Louisville, knowing that some of them have his prints embedded in the mortar surrounding the stones.

Life can be a humbling experience - working hard everyday to support our families, trying hard to reach our dreams but in the end, our memory, our influence, continues within those whose lives we touched. That is the part of God which personally touches us and now God has tapped him on the shoulder and brought him into his presence. Feel good about his passing, he is embraced!

With brotherly love,
